Curriculum Vitae

Soo Jin Woo, MD, is a plastic and reconstructive surgeon specializing in hand and microsurgery. She graduated summa cum laude from Yeungnam University College of Medicine and completed her residency in Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery at Seoul National University Hospital. She then completed a one-year hand surgery fellowship at W General Hospital, followed by a one-year international microsurgery fellowship at Chang Gung Memorial Hospital in Taiwan.

Dr. Woo currently serves as a hand and microsurgeon at W General Hospital in Daegu, Korea, where her clinical practice focuses on complex hand trauma, replantation, peripheral nerve reconstruction, brachial plexus surgery, and toe-to-hand transfer. Her academic interests include microsurgical reconstruction, congenital hand surgery, peripheral nerve surgery, and functional reconstruction. She has presented her work at national and international meetings and has published multiple peer-reviewed articles in the fields of plastic, reconstructive, hand, and microsurgery. She is actively involved in international academic collaboration and surgical education.
